Summary 653

PREFACE

This report of campaign financing for the 1988 elections, like those for past elections, concerns itself mainly with candidates for statewide offices and state district offices and with political committees organized to support statewide ballot issues. Totals of moneys received and spent by federal candidates (those running for Congress) also are included and were compiled from copies of their reports that are filed with the Federal Election Commission.

The party affiliation or nonpartisan status of each candidate is abbreviated and shown in parentheses after each name when it initially appears. The abbreviations and meanings are listed below.

(D)	Democrat
(R)	Republican
(L)	Libertarian
(NP)	Nonpartisan

Additionally, incumbents are designated by an asterisk (*) before their names.

A feature new to this edition, in the appendix, is the summary listing of candidates and ballot issue committees and the moneys they received and spent for the 1988 elections. A format change from past editions now groups and sets apart all political action committees (PACs) and their contributions to candidates or other committees. The same is true for political party and incidental political party contributions.

All of the material presented in this book is meant to be as complete and as accurate as possible; however, since the information is derived from campaign finance reports, it can only be as accurate and complete as were the reports filed by candidates and political committees with the Commissioner of Political Practices. A few candidates, none of whom were elected to office, still have not filed reports required by law. Some also have not resolved problems found with their reports. Finally, certain information that was missing from reports is designated in the manner shown below.
